

What is a Neighborhood Association?

It is a group of diverse residents who live in the same general geographic area and who bring a variety of interests and skills to their association, but who want a clean, safe, and congenial living environment. Being a member of a neighborhood association is voluntary, as the associations are often informal, with their main focus on the community and quality of life.

York City's Neighborhood Associations are not all the same. They are unique and have been established based on their distinctive needs and common concerns. Your involvement with the Neighborhood Association in your area will be special. What you get from joining will depend on what you give to the group in terms of your involvement!

Neighborhood Association key activities may include such things as:

- social events to bring neighbors together
- safety and crime prevention initiatives such as neighborhood watches
- zoning and code enforcement
- neighborhood beautification
- social services for residents
- getting the word out via flyers, email, and door-to-door interaction.

A Neighborhood Association is not the same as a Homeowners Association (HOA). HOAs are established when a neighborhood is built and membership is mandatory. HOAs are focused on enforcement of safety and building regulations, and maintenance of common property. They have the legal authority to address infractions.

How Can I Join a Neighborhood Association?

Visit the ANA website, www.anayork.webs.com to locate the area where you live and the contact information for the current representatives of that association. Most neighborhood associations can be reached by either telephone or email.

Reach out and become involved. You could have the opportunity to share or learn new skills, make new friends, and help to make your home in York a better place to live!
